

Sign the Tree Charter

The Charter for Trees, Woods and People was launched in November 2017 on the 800th anniversary of the influential 1217 Charter of the Forest.

The Tree Charter redefines the relationship between people and trees for the 21st century. Its 10 principles offer guidance and inspiration that will help to shift policy, practice and attitudes so people and trees can be stronger together – from local and national government, to businesses and communities, and across the homes and neighbourhoods of the UK.

From now on, the way we all think about trees, what we do to defend and care for them and how we choose to use and include them in our lives, is what will make the charter's vision a reality.

The Tree Charter's strength will come from those who sign in support: joining the movement to help ensure we can all exercise our rights to the benefits that trees and woods provide while taking responsibility for their safe and healthy future.
